

FROM THE DIRECTOR

I have always loved celebrating Easter with my family. Dressing up to go to church, Easter Brunch, decoration eggs and having a huge egg hunt are our favorite things to do. As my children have gotten older, our Easter Egg Hunts have become quite competitive and physical. Even though they are in their twenties, this is still one of their top things to do. Over the years, our families have shared with me some of their family traditions. As always, if you don't have a church home, we would love to have you join us at Compass Christian Church for services. - Blessings, Ms. Kim

- Visit a farm - Nash Farm in Grapevine is amazing and they always have the cutest animals. Don't forget that Grapevine Botanical Garden is right across the street.

- Grow Jelly Beans - Each Easter Saturday, the Easter Bunny leaves some magic jelly beans for us to plant in the garden. We dig a hole, put in the jelly beans, water them, and wait. The next morning, a giant lollipop has grown in their place.
- Non-Candy Treats for Easter Baskets - Things like stickers, chalk, craft supplies, a bible and books are favorites for almost every child.
- Grow your own Easter Grass - I hate unnecessary plastic and I feel like Easter 'grass' is the epitome of unnecessary plastic. It's not pretty, lacks any kind of real purpose, is not recyclable and it gets tracked all over your house before getting dumped in the trash-can. Growing Easter grass that you can EAT sounds is a fantastic idea and it looks so fancy.
- Coconut Bunny Cake - This is one tradition that I wish I would have done with my children. Making a bunny cake with your children and serving it at Easter is right up my alley.

EASTER AT COMPASS

You're invited to experience and celebrate Easter at Compass. No matter where you've been or what you've done, we are FOR you and you matter. When Jesus died, His disciples' world fell apart. We all know the feeling. But God wasn't done. He was working in ways His people couldn't see. The best news we've ever received is the news that spread on the first Easter morning. Jesus rose from the dead, just as He promised!

What to Expect:

- Biblical, relevant teaching
- Great music
- Multiple service times to fit your schedule—in-person & online
- Friendly people and helpful hosts
- Opportunities for Kids (3 months - 5th Grade) to learn and engage on their level
